

Our identity

GOALS SESSION 1

- You name three values you want our team to show this season
- You understand why a shared identity is the foundation of a strong team
- You help write one sentence that describes our team this season

Culture doesn't start with rules. It starts with who you are. Who are we as a team? Not what we want to win, but how we want to be. This worksheet lays the foundation.

EXERCISE 1: WHO ARE WE?

1 Three words for our team

Which three words do you want people to say about our team? Not about our results, but about our behavior and character.

My three words:

After the group discussion: the three words our team chose.

EXERCISE 2: OUR CULTURE ANCHORS

2 What do we keep, what do we let go?

Think about last season. What do we want to keep? What do we consciously leave behind?

WE KEEP ►

WE LET GO ✕

EXERCISE 3: OUR TEAM SENTENCE

3 One sentence that describes us

Write one sentence together. A sentence that says who you want to be this season, as a team. Not a slogan, but a real promise.

Our team sentence this season:

What does this sentence mean to me as a player?

PERSONAL REFLECTION

Which behavior last season didn't fit the culture we want now? Yours or the team's. What will you do about it?

MENTAL RESILIENCE: DEFENDING OUR IDENTITY

Sometimes a player puts our values under pressure, on purpose or not. What do we do then, as a team? Write down what you say or do when this happens.

"Culture is not just one aspect of the game, it is the game."

Lou Gerstner, CEO IBM