

COACH PRESENTATION

Our team contract

Making agreements that matter

GOAL OF THIS SESSION

You guide the team in creating concrete behavioral agreements. The team contract is signed by all players and becomes the reference point for the rest of the season.

COACH NOTE

Let the team formulate the rules themselves — ownership is crucial. Make sure agreements are specific and behavior-oriented. "We respect each other" is too vague. "We listen until the coach finishes speaking" is concrete.

SESSION OVERVIEW

1

What worked, what did not?

10 min

2

Formulating agreements

15 min

3

Sign and commit

5 min

What worked, what did not?

🕒 10 min • Exercise 1/3

Discuss last season or training so far. What behavior made the team stronger, what cost energy or trust? Write it in two columns.

Formulating agreements

🕒 15 min • Exercise 2/3

Groups of three each formulate two agreements. Plenary: select the six to eight strongest together. Check: are they specific enough?

Sign and commit

🕒 5 min · Exercise 3/3

Write the contract out large. Everyone, including you as coach, signs it. Hang it visibly. Do not skip this step: signing makes it concrete.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

- ? What will you do if someone does not follow an agreement?
- ? How do you hold each other accountable without punishing?
- ? What is your personal commitment to this contract?

CLOSING

Read the full contract aloud and ask each player briefly for their personal pledge.
Close with a team ritual: a clap, a chant, a circle — something that is yours.

CHARACTERFirst

“

"Agreements, not rules. You can break a rule. You own an agreement."

Atul Gawande