

SESSION 1: MENTOR GUIDE

Who am I?

First session: listening is everything. Your job is not yet to guide but to connect.

SESSION GOAL

Help the athlete form a conscious picture of their identity, separate from athletic performance. Build trust as the foundation for the entire journey.

CONVERSATION FLOWOPENING (5 MIN)

""Before we start, how are you really doing? Not as an athlete, but as a person?""

💡 Hold long silences. Don't fill them in. The athlete gets to search.

EXPLORING (15 MIN)

""Which value did you choose and what does it mean for you in daily life?""

💡 Ask for concrete examples. "Can you tell me a moment when you lived that?"

DEEPENING (10 MIN)

""Is the person you are at home the same as the athlete on the field? What's different?""

💡 No one is the same everywhere. That's richness, not a problem.

CLOSING (5 MIN)

""What do you take with you from today? One word or sentence. ""

💡 Formulate the action for next session together. Let the athlete phrase it themselves.

OBSERVE

- How easily does the athlete talk about themselves as a person vs. as an athlete?
- Which values do they name spontaneously, even before the exercise?
- Is there tension or hesitation? That's normal information, not a problem to solve.
- What does body language say when they talk about certain values?

△ NOTE

First sessions lay the foundation of trust. Don't ask difficult questions too soon. If an athlete is reserved, normalize it: "You don't have to share everything, take your time."

CLOSING

Affirm what you heard: "What I remember about you is..." This shows the athlete you truly listened. Give the action assignment and confirm the next session.
