

COACH PRESENTATION

Conflict and recovery

Having difficult conversations

— GOAL OF THIS SESSION

You teach players to handle conflict constructively. Conflict avoidance weakens a team; good conflict management makes it stronger. Players practice direct, respectful communication.

COACH NOTE

Your role during conflict: do not solve it immediately, guide it. Give space to both sides. Use the I-message: I feel X when you do Y, I ask you to do Z. Do not pick a side before you have heard both versions.

SESSION OVERVIEW

Setting up a recovery protocol

5 min

Recognizing conflict styles

🕒 10 min • Exercise 1/3

Discuss four styles: avoiding, attacking, giving in, collaborating. Ask: which do you recognize in yourself? Which is most effective for the team? (Answer: collaborating.)

Roleplay: difficult conversation

🕒 15 min • Exercise 2/3

Pairs act out a scenario using the I-message structure (e.g. someone is always late). After three minutes: switch roles and discuss what worked.

Setting up a recovery protocol

🕒 5 min · Exercise 3/3

Together set up a short protocol: 1) cool down (24h), 2) direct conversation, no third parties, 3) coach as mediator if needed, 4) restore the agreement.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

- ? How do you currently resolve conflicts within the team?
- ? What is the difference between a conflict that weakens the team and one that makes it stronger?
- ? When do you involve the coach and when do you solve it yourself?

CLOSING

Hang the recovery protocol next to the team contract. Explain: conflicts are normal, what matters is how you deal with them. Teams that process conflict well are the strongest teams.
