

Team First

Character First*GOALS MONTH 5

- You can explain what psychological safety is and why it affects team performance
- You actively contribute to a safe team climate by asking for help and acknowledging others
- You co-sign a joint team contract that guides the season

The step from "I" to "we" is the hardest in sports. Today you explore what it really means to put the team first, even when it costs you something.

EXERCISE 1 — TEAM CONTRACT1 My Contribution to the Team Contract

Write three behavioral rules you personally want to uphold this season — not about winning, but about how you treat your teammates.

I promise to

I promise to

I promise to

Signature

Date

EXERCISE 2 — INVISIBLE CONTRIBUTION2 Invisible Contribution

Write one teammate who did something during the last match or training that nobody noticed but was essential for the team.

Teammate name:

What did he or she concretely do?

EXERCISE 3 — HELP LOG

3 Help Log

Ask a teammate for help actively at least 3× this month during training. Write what you asked, to whom, and what it produced.

WHAT DID I ASK?

WHAT DID IT PRODUCE?

TO WHOM?

DATE

How did it feel to ask for help? What did I learn?

TEAM REFLECTION

At what moment this season did I sacrifice something for the team? What did that teach me?

"Talent wins games, but teamwork and intelligence win championships."

Michael Jordan — 6× NBA Champion, Chicago Bulls